

WHY PEOPLE SHOULD PLAY FOOTBALL

The game of football is something that is very intriguing. Most people think that it's only a game of super star athletes. Little do they know that there is much more to this game. It is behind the scenes that the true football players are made. Hard work, long training sessions and fatigue all describe what preparation is like. However, while all of this seems so difficult, the rewards, that being a football player provides, are priceless.

One of the greatest rewards of being a football player is feeling like you are part of a "family". After a team has gone through pre-season workouts and then through regular training sessions, the players bond. The bond is similar to big brother – little brother bond. Everyone is always looking out for each other and nothing can separate them. During this bonding process, many friends are made, players discover teammates that have the same will and desire as they do for the game. Not only do they become friends on the field, but off the field as well.

After the long, hard week of practice is over, it is time for the team to see how they match up. There is nothing better than preparing to walk onto the field in front of fans knowing that you get the opportunity to see how you square up against your opponent. The football game itself is something that every player always enjoys and knows that one main reason is that if they make mistakes at any time, there is always an opportunity later in the game to make up for it. Unless you have actually experienced this, you cannot relate to it.

The game of football can always provide someone with great opportunity. It always gives people that feel like they have something to hope for. Being part of a football team is something that will never be regretted. Games and friendships are cherished forever. Anyone who wants to be a part of something they can cherish forever, playing the game of football is a high recommendation. The rewards are enormous and guaranteed when respect is shown to the game and to your football "family". K Tyler
